Travelling with your exotic pet?

When travelling between countries, you will need a CITES permit for many exotic pets. Some examples are:

- Most parrots
- Some lizards, turtles and snakes
- Hybrid cats (wild cat crossed with domestic cat)

Certificates of ownership, also known as pet passports, are available for species listed under the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES).

Check before you travel. The country you are visiting may also have additional requirements or restrictions.
